A screenshot of the WordPress dashboard interface. The top navigation bar shows "My blog" with a home icon, a notification icon with "0", and a "New" button. The user is identified as "Howdy, admin". The main dashboard area is titled "Dashboard" and contains several widgets: "At a Glance" showing 1 Post, 1 Page, and 1 Comment, and noting "WordPress 3.8 running Twenty Fourteen theme."; "Activity" showing a "Recently Published" post titled "Hello world!" from "Today, 1:55 am"; "Comments" showing a comment from "Mr WordPress" on "Hello world!"; "Quick Draft" with a "Title" field, a "What's on your mind?" text area, and a "Save Draft" button; and "WordPress News" featuring a "3.8" update notice from December 12, 2013, and several news links. A sidebar on the left lists navigation options like Home, Updates, Posts, Media, Links, Pages, Comments, Appearance, Plugins, Users, Tools, and Settings. At the bottom of the sidebar is a "Collapse menu" button.
